STATEMENT

Human Rights Party finds that it is the right time after we made the political movement for change on 15 January 2009 by which all nationalists and liberal democrats should hold a transparent discussion considering the nation's interest as the most prioritized by creating a new political party, in response to the demand of our people.

One year after this fourth national election, there are much public concern about political situation; sovereignty; territorial integrity; democracy; freedom of speech, which have seriously declined; economic crisis; and social problems in Cambodia.

Through direct meeting of HRP leaders with local people, in many villages and communes across the country, and previous oversee visits, Cambodian people loving their nation and liberal democracy demand that political parties and all Khmer politicians calling themselves as the nationalists or democrats merge together to create a new political party in order to win the upcoming election.

Human Rights Party restates its policy to the public that HRP is ready to merge with other political parties or politicians, the nationalists and democrats, to make a new political party based on democratic basis.
